

JOHN C. FREMONT STRAIGHT BOURBON WHISKEY

AGED FOUR YEARS

2022 Double Gold Medal, The World Spirits Competition

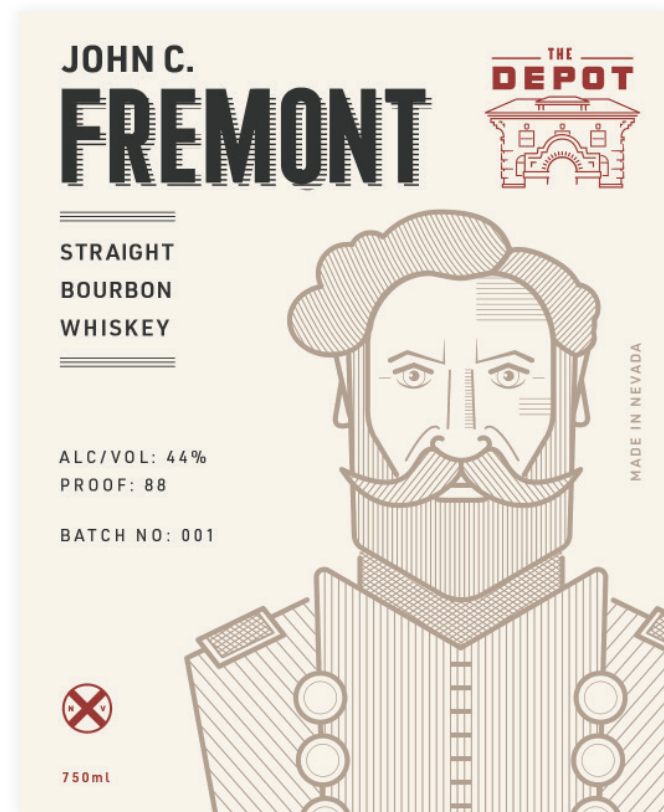

PROFILE

General John C. Fremont, an explorer of The American West, was known by the moniker of The Pathfinder. Many men set out to achieve fame and wealth by finding more direct routes through our Sierra Nevada mountains, but Fremont outshined his contemporaries by using science and experience, coupled with curiosity and mettle, to succeed where others had failed.

In 2014, a small distillery on a forgotten corner was founded in a century-old building that barely remained standing. Where many said we may fail, we fixed our sites out onto the horizon. In a distillery that hadn't seen its first anniversary, we laid down this whiskey that wouldn't be bottled for at least four long years.

We now proudly offer this Straight Bourbon as a salute to those who choose to look forward and ignore the perils that may befall them. We raise a toast to new paths and those that dare to blaze them.
